

INNOVATE MISSOURI

Missouri State University received its designation as a University Center through the U.S. Economic Development Administration in 2023.

Innovate Missouri is a statewide partnership, with a focus on the southern Missouri region, that connects individuals, employers, and economic development organizations with university and Southern Missouri Innovation Network resources to advance the region's economic impact.

The Missouri State University Center is a cross-functional partnership, led by the Division of Community and Global Partnerships – efactory, Missouri SBDC at MSU, Jordan Valley Innovation Center, Research Administration; the Provost's office; and the Center for Resource Planning & Management.

University Center funding connects people and organizations with university resources and provides no and low-cost opportunities throughout the region.

This collaborative approach brings together the expertise of Missouri State University faculty, staff and students to empower businesses and create new jobs throughout the region.

Business support and talent development services to individuals, regional employers and economic development organizations

Support and acceleration of technology commercialization and entrepreneurship

Technical assistance for staff of Regional Planning Commissions and Economic Development Districts

Promotion of resources available through the University Center

efactory.missouristate.edu

